

IT'S ABOUT YOUR STORY

In our first meeting, we'll take some time getting to know one another. Here are some questions that will help you prepare for our discussion, and give me an idea about you both and what's important to you about your relationship.

- When and where did you both meet each other?
- How did the two of you first cross paths?
- When you first encountered your partner, what was it that truly left an impression on you about them?
- Tell me about the stages of your relationship. What were those early weeks or months like for the two of you?
- Let's discuss the moments in your relationship. Can you share some of the highlights, such as any trips taken together, the moment you decided to live together, or when you purchased your first home?
- When and where did both of you get engaged to one another?
- How did the proposal unfold?
- What is it about your partner that fills your heart with love and admiration?
- How does it feel to experience love for your partner?
- In what ways do you express your affection towards your partner?
- When did it become clear to you that your partner was 'the one' for you?
- What would be considered as strengths within this relationship from your perspective?
- What excites you most about being married in the future?
- What is something about your partner that should never be changed?
- Is there anything that drives you crazy when it comes to things that your partner does?
- Do any dreams come to mind regarding doing something with your partner in the future?
- What activities do you enjoy doing with your partner?
- Tell me about an ideal evening spent with your partner.
- How do you feel about marriage?
- How would you define love? What does it signify to you?
- What factors influenced your choice of wedding venue?
- Does your wedding date hold any significance?
